

Dear Valued Members,

We at the National Association of Securities Professionals (NASP) take the health and safety of our staff, members and strategic partners very seriously. Given this is a serious situation with many unknowns, the Executive Committee and NASP have decided to postpone the 31st Annual Pension and Financial Services Conference that was scheduled for June 15 – 17 in Chicago. The NASP Headquarters, working with the NASP event planners, are working diligently to identify a new date to hold the event in the near future.

Rest assured that while the conference is postponed, we will deliver a content rich and value-added experience for all of our participants, members and guests.

We will continue to keep you apprised as details regarding our new date are secured.

Thank you for your partnership, support, and assistance in the midst of this crisis.

We wish you and your families the best in these uncertain times. We look forward to connecting with you soon.

Regards,
